Re: Paid Up Oil and Gas Lease
Ben Hicks and wife, Joy R. Hicks, Lessor
Chesapeake Exploration, L.L.C., Successor Lessee
Tarrant County, Texas

Dear Mr. & Mrs. Hicks:

Chesapeake Operating, Inc. ("Chesapeake") has disappointing news to share regarding its efforts to conduct drilling operations in Dalworthington Gardens, Texas. You will recall that you executed a Paid Up Oil and Gas Lease with Boterra Resources, L.L.C. (the "Lease"), a Memorandum of which was filed in the Real Property Records of Tarrant County, Texas. The Lease was assigned to Chesapeake Exploration Limited Partnership through an Assignment of Oil and Gas Lease dated December 13, 2006 and filed in the Real Property Records of Tarrant County, Texas as Instrument # D207111050. The City Council of Dalworthington Gardens voted to reject the drillsite which Chesapeake intended to use to produce your minerals and generate royalty payments to you under your Lease.

Specifically, Chesapeake initiated its internal processes to drill one or more horizontal gas wells from a drillsite located in City of Dalworthington Gardens, Texas (the "City") on property owned by Pleasant Ridge Partners, LLC. (the "Near Mini padsite"). These processes include the negotiation of a surface use agreement with Pleasant Ridge Partners, leasing of the mineral estate underlying the Near Mini padsite from Adlai Pennington, detailed surveying work of the Near Mini padsite and surrounding area, leasing efforts targeting additional acreage that may be necessary to facilitate mineral development, and evaluation of any applicable governmental permitting requirements. A timeline of the actions taken by Chesapeake with the City are found on the enclosure behind this letter.

Although Chesapeake will work diligently to reverse the City Council's vote to deny the necessary drilling permit, the denial prevents Chesapeake from being able to comply with certain obligations set forth in your Lease. As a result, Chesapeake must declare and invoke "force majeure" as authorized by the Lease to hold the Lease in effect while Chesapeake continues to pursue its remedies against the City. The "force majeure" provision in your Lease contains language that makes Chesapeake's obligations subject to all applicable laws, rules, regulations and orders of any governmental authority having jurisdiction to regulate gas well drilling and production. Under this provision, the denial of the necessary permit by the City constitutes force majeure because Chesapeake is prevented from conducting drilling operations by the City.

If you are unhappy that the City has unfairly interfered with your right to receive royalty payments from the production of natural gas as intended by Chesapeake under your Lease, we encourage you to contact the Mayor and City Council members of DWG by October 12, 2009 as we appeal this decision. Their contact information is enclosed behind this letter. Perhaps you can urge them to reverse this decision.

Sincerely,

TIMELINE OF ACTIONS TAKEN BY CHESAPEAKE BEFORE THE CITY OF DALWORTHINGTON GARDENS

- May 12, 2009: Chesapeake submits to the City of DWG a Gas Well Permit Application for the Near Mini 1H – 6H gas wells (the "Permit")
- June 18, 2009: Outside City Council Chambers, prior to a vote on the Permit, DWG City Council instructs Chesapeake to withdraw the Permit to allow the City of DWG and Chesapeake time to explore an alternative site for gas well development, with the option to re-file the Permit if the alternative site does not materialize. Faced with the probable Council denial of the Permit, Chesapeake acquiesces to the DWG City Council request and withdraws the Permit.
- June 25, 2009: City of DWG Mayor Michael Tedder and DWG property owner Ben Hicks meet with Chesapeake to discuss the possibility of gas well development on property owned by Hicks which the City of DWG would purchase.
- June 29, 2009: Chesapeake re-submits the Permit for the Near Mini 1H – 6H gas wells.
- August 19, 2009: Negotiations between Chesapeake and the City of DWG for gas well development on property owned by Ben Hicks which the City of DWG would purchase end.
- August 20, 2009: City of DWG City Council denies Chesapeake's re-submitted Permit.
